

Part D Report

In the above diagram the x and y axis show the flow 1 throughput and flow 2 throughput. The images illustrate the AIMD, MIMD and MIAD congestion control techniques. As we can see that the graphs never tend to converge at the fair point and most of the graphs tend to be above the line i.e indicating a loss and even after applying the strategies we never tend to come near the fair point indicating the unfairness of the diagrams.